WILLIE RITCHIE NEVER DUCKED REAL FIGHTERS

BY FRANG G. MENKE.
(By International News Service.)

New York, Aug. 17.—Willie Ritchie was a model champion. There are a number of persons who have been heaving brickbats at Willie since Freddie Welsh took away his world champion title, but a glance over Ritchie's record shows that he never ducked a real fighter. Ritchie, unlike the champions in the other divisions, and unlike the champions in his class that preceded him, was not a lemon picker.

When Ritchie fought, he gave the crowd the best he had. With Willie as one of the principals the crowd was sure that at least one party in the fighting contract would give the fans a run for their money. Ritchie never stalled—even his bitterest enemies cannot charge him with that.

While he held the championship he took on the best man in his class. He met Joe Rivers when the Mexican was at the zenith of his career. He tackled Leach Cross in New York and that scrap was one of the greatest ever staged in this town. It was a hammer and tongs affair from the tap of the first gong. Ritchie mixed and slugged. He never backed away from that terrific punch that Cross carries. He was boxing every minute of the way.

He fought such a fight with everything to lose and nothing to gain. The defeat of Cross could not add much glory to his name. His defeat by Cross meant the loss of the title.

Wolga, from whom Ritchie took the title, scoffed at Ritchie's prowess. He reiterated a hundred times that if they ever met again he would be able to regain the crown. Ritchie took him on in Milwaukee—and Ritchie won.

Ritchie met Tommy Murphy, in response to Pacific Coast demands. They figured there that Murphy could beat him. Murphy, before the battle, was highly touted. Ritchie made Murphy look like a punching bag during the battle. Ritchie met Charley White, in Milwaukee, one of the toughest men in the lightweight division. Out there the fans say White gave Ritchie a beating. Ritchie denies it. But Ritchie says he is perfectly willing to take on White again at any time a sufficient purse is offered.

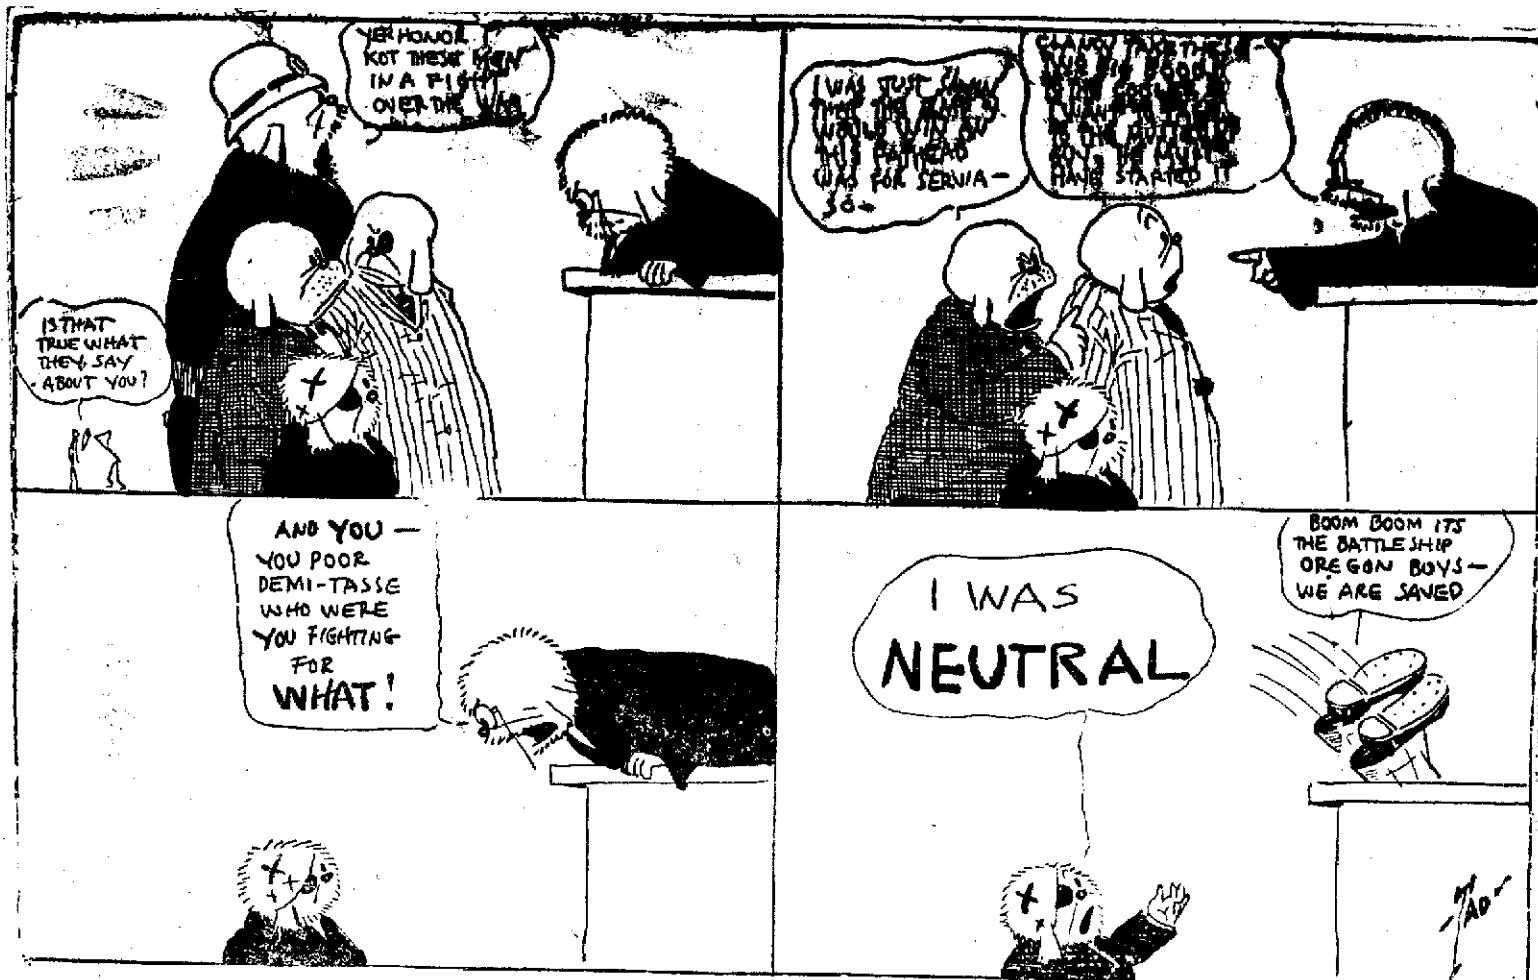

Ritchie went to England to fight Welsh. He knew before going that he either would have to knock out the Briton or lose. The American style of aggressiveness doesn't figure there except against him. The ducking and running counts for points. Ritchie knew that—he knew that such a way was Welsh's style. But he didn't squirm out of the scrap. He showed that he doesn't own a yellow streak.

Ritchie was a popular champion. He made friends with the fans because he always was willing to give them the best he had. And that was considerable. Of course, Ritchie haggled a lot about his price. But that's what every other man does. He wants the most he can get for his services.

Arthur Pelky has announced his retirement from the ring. He never has been able to get back his nerve since his fight with Luther McCarty. It was Pelky's blow in the second round of that fight that sent McCarty down to his death. The shock of Mc-

SILK HAT HARRY'S DIVORCE SUIT

BY TAD

Carty's death unsettled Pelky's nerves and he never since has fought even a fair fight. There always was a sort of timidity about his actions. He was afraid to hit.

Johnny Coulon, former bantam champion, has made a big hit with the members of the Working Boys Home in Chicago. He presented them with $1000—the money paid to him as a guarantee for his appearance in the ring with Kid Williams, of Baltimore. Johnny lost the title in that scrap, but he made good his promise. And with the Chicago lads he is a king.

THE CASE OF JENNIE BRICE

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

Was Jennie Brice murdered? If so, who killed her?
What did "Horn" mean? Also, strange mark on the body?

Read our new serial and solve these mysteries

¶ "THE CASE OF JENNIE BRICE" will be run in a liberal installment each day, and "THE TREY O' HEARTS" will appear on every Monday and Wednesday---Three full columns on each of these two days, and will also be run in pictures at the NEW OPERA HOUSE.

Good evening! Isn't it strange how quickly the news of an increase in prices of foodstuffs travels, while a reduction in prices seems to come by slow freight.

Even at that, the allies may be traveling the alleys into Belgium.

Crickets are singing their autumnal ditties and the coal man warbles his song of praise.

Motorcycle races down Third street may be the cause of a serious accident one of these days.

Many a man is willing to give advice who hasn't gumption enough to turn a grindstone in the proper direction.

Judging from their past records, the Zeppelin balloons used in the German army will be a great aid to the Belgians.

The Progress continues to give its readers full reports of the great war in Europe, and as this war progresses the news is certain to be more interesting. Have the paper sent to your home every week-day for the small sum of twenty-five cents a month.

It is to be hoped that James S. Merritt will be able to prove that the charge of arson brought against him in connection with the Woodland fire is unfounded. To be accused of setting fire to a building causing the destruction of nearly twenty other places of business is a serious matter.

TESTING THE MILK

The board of health now has in its possession the milk testing apparatus which borough council authorized Dr. Reilley, president of the board, to purchase. As soon as the machine has been assembled and is ready for operation the work of testing the milk sold to local consumers will be begun in order that such lactical fluid as is likely to contain disease germs may be eliminated from the supply furnished Clearfield citizens.

Together with the testing of the milk the board of health is expected to examine the dairies and the entire paraphernalia employed in the distribution of milk, and those dealers who have not completely complied with the rules of sanitation will be compelled to do so as soon as possible. Wagons in which milk is hauled and bottles in which it is carried will have to be cleaned and kept clean if the milk is to pass satisfactory inspection by the board of health.

For the most part the milk sold in this town is clean and up to the standard. There are some dealers, however, who fail to keep their dairies, wagons and bottles clean. These will be looked after. Wholesalers who receive milk from other places will have to guarantee that this milk is free from contamination. The regulations of the board of health are strict, but not any stricter than they should be when it is realized that impure milk is the cause of typhoid fever and other contagious diseases. Clearfield citizens pay enough for milk to be entitled to have it pure and fresh.

IN THE MEANTIME.

While one-half of the people of Europe are engaged in a war of extermination there are other things happening in this big world of ours, some of which are of much interest to the general public as is the great conflict. The war is an absorbing subject of discussion in some quarters, but there are other topics of almost equal importance and interest found in the news columns of the papers.

In Mexico the new provisional president has fled from Mexico City and placed himself under the protection of the Americans at Vera Cruz. Carbajal seems to be unsafe either with the rebels or the federales, and as the former are about to enter the capital the provisional president has decided to go elsewhere and wait developments.

On Saturday Colonel Goethals formally opened the big ditch down in Panama, dug by Uncle Sam for the accommodation of British commerce. This event is of such stupendous importance that if it had not been for the European war the fact that the canal is now ready for the passage of ships would have been blazoned in big type on the first page of every newspaper in the United States.

Congress sits still in session trying to devise ways and means of preventing the Democratic party from disintegration by passing laws which are expected to placate the people and fool them into believing that the Democratic party is worthy of being given another lease of office. The fact that the Democrats have not succeeded in reducing the high cost of living is a mere side issue in the estimation of that party.

The farmers are busy garnering the biggest and best crop of grain in the history of agriculture in the United States. The people are ready for war now, playing tennis or golf, boating or fishing, criticising each others clothes, putting up preserves, swearing at the flies and indulging in other pastimes and pleasures common to the American race. There is no dearth of excitement—and the mad rush toward the ultima thule cannot be stayed.

THEATRICAL SEASON WILL OPEN SOON

love with this delightful character. "The Divorce Question" on October 6 concerns a timely topic and "Seven Hours in New York" on the 9th will drive away all cares.

The great story of the Saturday Evening Post, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," will show here on the 15th, and will be followed on the 19th by one of the greatest comedies ever written for that periodical, "Potash and Perlmutter." "Nephtune's Daughter" on the 21st and 22nd. Kitty McKay, the brilliant little star on the 27th, the favorite repertoire.

"The Manhattan Players," the entire week of November 16. Thanksgiving week will be well taken care of with "Things That Count" on the 23rd and "The Third Degree," on the 26th.

Ferdinand Grahame's Stock Company, will be here on January 4 and week, with Dorothy Kline's all star show the week of January 18. "Too Many Crooks," one of the new Brady comedies, will be here on February 19, and "Mutt and Jeff" on March 4.

RECEIVES NO ENCOURAGEMENT IN PROPOSED LOAN TO FRANCE

J. P. MORGAN

Washington, Aug. 17.—J. P. Morgan, who conferred with President Wilson with regard to a proposed loan of many millions to France by the Morgan interests, received no encouragement for the project from the president. It was pointed out to Mr. Morgan that the United States wishes to remain strictly neutral and that such a loan might be construed by Germany or Austria as an attempt on the part of the United States to aid the triple entente.

CASH DIVIDENDS ON GOODS YOU BUY

By HOLLAND.

SOUNDS good, doesn't it? And the best of it is it is true. These cash dividends are paid on every dollar you spend provided you spend wisely and buy goods that the market believes in so strongly that he advertises them.

Advertised goods are not always the cheapest so far as the amount asked for them is concerned. But they are INVARIABLY THE BEST. And this makes them cheapest when all things are considered.

When you buy for the same money a better article than you have been buying you get a cash dividend on your purchase. When you pay less for an article of the same quality you get a cash dividend.

THESE DIVIDENDS ARE PAID TO THE READERS OF ADVERTISEMENTS IN THIS PAPER.

ADVERTISEMENT.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT SEALED BIDS will be received by the Supervisors of Knox Township, at their Meeting Place in Carnwath, Penn., until 12 o'clock noon, Tuesday, August 25th, 1914, for the construction of a

THIRTY-FOOT, RE-INFORCED CONCRETE GIRDER, HIGHWAY BRIDGE,

Over Potts' Run, at Carnwath.

Proposals will be required to conform to plans and specifications on file at the office of the Supervisors, and at the office of the Engineer, E. W. Hess, in Clearfield.

Bidders must deposit with the Secretary of the Supervisors, a certified check to the amount of Fifty Dollars, ($50.00) and payable to the Supervisors, prior to the time when bids will close, as a guarantee of good faith. Checks of unsuccessful bidders will be returned to them after the bids have been opened.

Proposals will be publicly opened at 1:00 o'clock P. M. of the same day.

The successful bidder will be required to execute satisfactory bonds in the sum equal to the bid for the faithful performance of the contract.

THE SUPERVISORS RESERVE THE RIGHT TO REJECT ANY OR ALL BIDS.

By order of the Supervisors,

NOSE AND HEAD STOPPED UP FROM COLD OR CATARRH, OPEN AT ONCE

Dull Headache Goes. Stops Nasal Catarrh. Discharges. My Cleaning, Healing Balm Instantly.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped air passages of the head will open, you will breathe freely, dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now. Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils: penetrates and heats the inflamed, swollen membrane, which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous droppings into the throat and raw dryness is distracting but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

Blames England for European Muddle
GEORGE BERNARD SHAW

While acknowledging that Prussia ought to be soundly whipped for her militarism, George Bernard Shaw, the English playwright, puts the blame for the present war on the shoulders of Great Britain.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush your Kidneys Occasionally if you eat meat regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, say a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become over-worked from the strain get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

It's pleasing to take—The Daily Progress.

The Adventures of Kathlyn

By HAROLD MAC GRATH

Illustrated by Pictures from the Moving Picture Production of the Selig Polyscope Co.

"Bala Khan, we have been friends, and my father was your good friend."

"It is true."

"Will you do a favor for the son?"

"Yes, if the Colonel Sahib and his daughter live. If they are dead, woe to your people, son of my friend! I have given my word to the memsahib. I have made a threat before my men and must fulfil it if I would hold them hereafter. If the Colonel Sahib and his daughter live, ask what you will."

Ramabai bowed.

"I will set my camp five miles beyond your walls and wait. When I see the memsahib I will salaam, turn right about face and go home. Now, to you, Bruce Sahib: Leave not your treasure within my walls when I shall be absent, for I cannot guarantee protection. Leave it where it is and bring it with you. Save myself, no one of my men knows what your saddlebags contain. Let us proceed upon our junket—or our war."

Umballa reached the ancient gate of Allaha at the same time Bruce stopped before the walls of Pala Khan's city. He pulled the curtains of the howdahs and threatened death if they called out. From time to time he gave directions to the weary men astride the elephant's neck. The thought of gold was not as tempting as it had been. There was fear in his heart. This false holy one was or had been the most powerful man in all Allaha. Here he would be among friends. And the man who had but recently been a peaceful fisherman felt intermittent hot flashes about his throat.

Umballa had no intention whatever of making his presence known in Allaha. He determined to wring the secret from either the colonel or his daughter, return for the treasure and depart for Egypt down the Persian gulf. He could have tortured his captives on the way, but he was oriental; he wanted to feel all the luxuries he had formerly known, to enjoy himself physically as well as mentally. He missed the exhilaration of his king's peg.

He made a wide detour and came out at the rear of his house. No one was in sight. He dismounted and entered, found three or four of his white slaves, who, when he revealed his identity, felt the old terror and fear of the man. His prisoners were brought in. A slave took the elephants and the stables. He wanted to run away and declare Umballa's presence, but fear was too strong.

Ironically Umballa bade the fishermen to enter, to eat and drink what they liked. Later he found them in a drunken stupor in the kitchen. That was where they belonged.

Umballa cast his prisoners into the secret chamber. Then he gave himself up to the luxury of a bath, had his hair and beard combed, his body anointed with perfumes, and put on his finest raiment. Then he drank his peg. As for his prisoners, he did not visit them again that day nor yet that night. The initial torture of suspense was always excellent. One thing annoyed him, however—not a murmur from these calm-eyed white people who were about to face death. He raged against this lack of feeling, for it robbed him of half his pleasure. He liked his victims to whine and cringe and beg for mercy.

Like many rich Asiatics, Umballa had his own menagerie. He had inherited it along with the demi-paiace four sides to this court, and in the center of each side were bars, and behind these bars tigers or leopards or lions or wild boar—whatever pleased the owner's fancy. Many a royal battle had been waged in this court, sometimes between tigers, or a tiger and a lion, a leopard and a boar.

Umballa, after his bath, asked if the old boar was still alive. The heaven-born was told that the animal had died in the cage a few days ago. Umballa shrugged. He had had in mind a fight between the boar and a leopard, to start his circulation, as it were.

He ordered his prisoners to be brought into the Court of Death and left there. Meditation was excellent for the end. A parapet ran round the court, and from there Umballa could see everything below. His victims entered the court without struggling. They merely stood closely together in the center.

"You see?" said Umballa. "Now, where have you hidden the treasure?"

Kathlyn walked over to one of the cages and peered into it. A sleek tiger trotted up to the bars and purred and invited her to scratch his head. She did not accept the invitation, however, knowing the species tolerably well. Usually these courts of death had solid steel doors which could be drawn up or lowered at will. The animal dens were more like cages.

With no little curiosity she noted a singular arrangement of the three central bars. The removal of these three bars left an opening sufficiently wide for the egress of the largest tiger or lion.

"I am not answered," said Umballa. A click resounded from the four sides, and a bar disappeared from each of the cages.

"That will be all for the present," said Umballa. "Food and water you will not require. Tomorrow morning another bar will be removed."

And he left them.

Overhead the blue sky was growing bluer and the shadows in the Court of Death a deeper black.

Early the next morning the town began to seethe in the squares. Bala Khan's army lay encamped outside the city. Those who possessed treasures dug pits for them in the cellars of their houses. Within the great temple there was a flutter among the robed ones. What could they do? They knew not where the white goddess was, nor Umballa. They dispatched a peace messenger to the camp, but the messenger was sent back before he had passed the outposts.

When Bruce, Ramabai, Pundita, and Ahmed halted their elephants before the temple they were greeted by the now terrified priests who begged to be informed what Bala Khan proposed to do.

"Deliver to us the memsahib."

The priests swore by all their gods that they knew nothing of her.

"He speaks the truth," volunteered Ramabai, as the chief priest fell before one of his gods. "Umballa has doubtless entered secretly."

"What would you advise? For God's sake, think of something, Ramabai! He may be torturing them!"

"Let us enter the temple," said Ramabai. "Ahmed, bring the treasure and leave it in the care of the priests."

A few moments later Ramabai addressed the assemblage. "Bala Khan is hostile, but only for the sake of his friends. He lays down this law, however—obey it or disobey it: The Colonel Sahib and his daughters are to go free, to do what they please with the treasure. Pundita, according to the will of the late king, shall be crowned. Obey or disobey. I warn you that these are not my dictates, but Bala Khan's."

"Peace, peace!" The cry rose from all directions, even from the priests themselves.

The high priest held up his hand for silence. "We obey, on one condition—that the new queen shall in no manner interfere with her old religion nor attempt to force her new religion into the temple."

To this Pundita agreed.

"Ramabai, soldiers! To the house of Umballa! We shall find them there!" cried Ahmed.

Umballa squatted upon his cushions on the terrace. The second bar had been removed. The beasts were pressing their wet muzzles to the openings and growling deep challenges.

Once more, and for the last time, will you reveal the hiding place of the treasure?"

Not a word from the prisoners. If they told or did not tell it would have made no difference with the man above. He was drunk.

"The third bar!"

But it did not stir.

"The third bar, remove it!"

The slave who had charge of the mechanism which operated the bars refused to act. Perhaps his refusal saved the lives of the colonel and his daughters. The bastinado was ordered for the poor, disobedient wretch. Then he was thrown out into the street.

And there Bruce found him and learned what was toward.

The events which followed were of breathless rapidity. Ramabai and Umballa met upon the parapet in a struggle which promised death or the treadmill to the weaker. At the same time Bruce opened the door to the Court of Death as the final bar dropped in the cage. At the sight of him the colonel and his daughters rushed to the door. Roughly he hurled them outside, slamming the iron door, upon which the infuriated tigers flung themselves.

A week later, Kathlyn, Winnie, their father and Bruce, accompanied by the faithful Ahmed, reached the coast and set sail for their beloved California.

The parting with Ramabai and Pundita, the real queen of Allaha, who at last had come into her own, was a sad one. Kathlyn and her friends had come to respect the devotion and loyalty of this couple who had shared with them so many trials and hardships.

The young newspaper manto whom Winnie was engaged and the grizzled Ahmed sat on the steps of the bungalow in California one pleasant afternoon. The pipe was cold in the hand of the reporter and Ahmed's cigar was dead, which always happens when one recounts an exciting tale and another listens. Among the flower beds behind two young women wandered, escorted by a young man in pongee, a woman sat carefully upon his hands. She had a head, his face brown, his build slender but round and muscular.

"And that, sahib, is the story," sighed Ahmed.

"And Kathlyn gave the treasures to the poor of Allaha? That was fine."

"You have said."

"They should have hanged this Umballa!"

"No, sahib. Death is grateful. It is not a punishment, it is peace. But Durga Ram, called Umballa, will spend the remainder of his days in the treadmill, which is a concrete hell, not abstract. Always round his ankles there will be iron, the galls of the night-chains. Always his wrists shall be bruised and torn; for sometimes he will lose his step and hang by his wrists. So much for ingratitude, so much for the blindness of revenge."

Do you think England will ever step in?"

"Perhaps. But so long as Pundita rules justly, so long as her consort abets her, England will not move. Perhaps, if one of them dies."

There! the mad are a thing you and I will go and brew the Colonel Sahib's tea."

THE END

NOT A RACE OF APE-MEN

Abundant Proof That American Cave-Dwellers Knew Advantages of Vegetable Diet.

The American cave-dwellers were not ape-men, not even big-jawed, low-browed meat eaters like the alleged associates of the famous albeit anonymous owner of the "Neanderthal Skull." Corn and squash seeds, three kinds of gourds, the stone mortar and the slender bones of birds tell of the largely vegetable diet of these primitive cave-dwellers.

Evidences of religious worship abound; little estuets, with places for the sacred fire among the dwellings, and larger ones in the open canyon, where circles of communal huts enclosed the central floor, hardened by the feet of thousands of dancers.

Here, still unexplored, are hundreds of tiny cavern houses burrowed in cliffs 500 and 600 feet high, colored in maroon, ochre, sober gray and gypsum white—hues that in the sunset glow in turnaces and royal purple and deep lavender.

Not far away, at Casa Grande, a race of tall men lived in larger caves, and left their mummified dead to tell of six-foot braves and broad-hipped women, while at Pijoles the bodies, swathed in woven cloths, were of medium height, with here and there a taller warrior. Reservoirs to impound water for siege or drought, ditches for irrigation; pictographs that are a mélange of bird or reptile, beasts and weird imitations of the human form divine; pottery in shards and unbroken; splintered bows and featherless arrows; fiber-soled sandals, and blankets thickened with rabbit fur are found in some of these ancient cavern houses—National Magazine.

Was it for Him?

Blithers and Smithers were neighbors. They were friends before they became neighbors. The friendship started by Blithers' not pushing Smithers' kid off a high pocket fence and nearly breaking his young neck. Then Smithers killed four of Blithers' chickens. After that they glared at each other like a couple of horse thieves.

Blithers hired a colored man to mow his lawn. Rastus threw the grass over the fence into Smithers' yard.

"Hey you!" yelled Smithers. "What in thunder are you doing?"

"Rastus blinked."

"Das foh yo' mool, mister," he smiled.

"Mule!" roared Smithers. "I ain't got no mule!"

Discouraging Burglar Gentlemen.

It had been hoped by the better class of burglars that by observation of the strict rules of the game and following the example of such eminent authorities as "Raffles" and other gentlemanly burglars a higher standard of professional work and etiquette might be reached and maintained, and news of such deplorable divergence from sanctioned procedure as sleeping in beautiful, clean beds with boots on cannot be other than discouraging to the Beau Brummels of the picturesque and engaging avocation.—New York Morning Telegraph.

Poison Little Understood.

A poison whose action is little understood by the medical profession, although it is one of the most useful of all, namely, strychnine, is being investigated. It is used as a stimulant quite generally, up to one-thirtieth of a grain being administered with impunity. But if the dose be increased over so little, the dangers of tetanus are very great. When tetanus does follow, however, paradoxical as it may seem, the cure applied is the administration of more strychnine.

"RED WIDOW" COMING TO OPERA HOUSE SEPT. 20

"Tribal War in the South Seas"

This remarkable subject was actually produced among the distant South Sea Islands by Henry McRae and his around the world company of stars. In the same measure that Hiawatha is an epic of Indian tradition the present story is an epic of Polynesian tradition.

A pretty love story is interwoven with the circumstances which lead to the bloody tribal war. Lihula, King Kalana's daughter, is greatly loved by the young chief, Makapa.

Makapa's mother is a witch-doctor and it is her consuming ambition that her son wed Lihula.

Poloka, a rival witch-doctor, has planned that his son, Lono, marry the king's daughter.

The rivalry, however, comes to an unexpected issue when the king's son meets with an accident and is injured. Poloka brings all his sorcery at his command to play, and falls to heal the injured man. Makapa's mother then tries her hand and cures the prince. As a reward for her services King Kalana gives his daughter to Makapa.

Poloka becomes enraged at his son's rejection, and with his son, deserts his tribe and joins the band of a rebel chief. Thus allied with a powerful tribe, Poloka and his son, Lono return to their own island, and steal Lihula, now the wife of Makapa. No sooner does Makapa learn of the abduction of his young wife than he summons all his men and prepares for war. Through her black art Makapa's mother learns of the whereabouts of Lihula. Makapa's warriors land on the island of the rebel chief, and a war of extermination begins. As was said before the fighting comes to a climax when Makapa and Lono engage in a fierce duel with the primitive weapons used by the Polynesians. Makapa slays Lono and carries his young wife back to her people.

"Wife's Busy Day."

Henry Peck is married to a woman who maps out his daily walks through life exactly in accordance to her notions. It happens that the dawn of a new day finds their child, never cooked deeply saturated with gin and the butter still slumbering as usual. After giving Henry a dime with which to buy coffee and doughnuts, that he might not go to the office hungry, Wife settles her troubles with the belated butler and his tardy cook to her own satisfaction.

On his way to the office, Henry meets fascinating Sue, a maid of whom cannot sport a dime for breakfast. She sees an opportunity to secure one through Henry. She plants herself beside Henry at the cafe table, eats heartily and then leaves, while Henry finds the two checks at his own plate. He is under the necessity of making an undignified get-away.

Reaching the office Henry receives a wire from a rich uncle saying that he is coming to pay a visit and expressing a desire to meet his wife. When Uncle arrives that afternoon he finds fascinating Sue with Henry and mistakes her for Henry's wife. Sue, ripe for any proposition that will gain her a supper, carries her part along.

"The Red Widow"

The management of the Opera House have secured "The Red Widow" one of the best musical comedies for September 3. The piece deals with a incident in the life of the newly rich, and is droll in its situations, enchanting in melodies, happy in its dialogue and full of that something that makes us go from the theatre feeling satisfied that we have been attractively entertained. This attraction comes to us with all its scale and costume splendor as well as the cost of high class artists whose singing, dancing and other specialty features made it one of the most important successes of last years metropolitan offerings. To lovers of pretty musical comedy with beautiful scenic and elaborate embellishments "The Red Widow" offers a wholesome attraction in which song and dainty dances help entertain an enjoyable evening.

RAILROAD NEWS

Items of Interest, Gathered Here and There, For The Boys Who Man The Trains

JOHNSTOWN PAYS DEARLY FOR OVERHEAD CROSSING

Sub-grade and overhead approaches to Pennsylvania railroad bridges and subways being constructed in connection with the railroad's big program of improvements in the vicinity of Johnstown, will cost the city of Johnstown approximately $80,000. The city has a bond issue of $100,000 to cover the cost of this work and bids for the sale of the bonds probably will be advertised for at once.

The railroad has started work on the construction of one of the bridges and on the concreting of the Fairfield avenue subway, and the city, which has not expected to be required to spend the money realized from the bond issue until next year, now finds it necessary to put the bonds on the market. Council held a meeting Friday morning with engineers of the Pennsylvania railroad, and plans submitted by the railroad were formally approved.

Changing the Time Tables.

It is reported that more than 600 time tables have been changed in the last official guide, about 10 per cent. more than were made a year ago. The reason for the extraordinary number of changes is an effort on the part of railroads all over the country to economize by consolidating trains and cutting down the number. Several eastern roads, notably the Erie, and Pennsylvania, have been doing experimental work along this line by adding longer engines that will carry in some cases twice the number of cars that were originally hauled.

Hill's Comment on War.

James J. Hill, who is in New York city at present attending the meeting of the Foreign Trade council, believes that the effect of the European war on this country depends upon the ability of the American merchants and trade companies to market our crops and manufactured products. Regarding crops in the Northwest, Mr. Hill said: "We are going to have an excellent crop along the Great Northern and from present indications the harvest will surpass those of 1912."

Railroad Revenues

One hundred and thirty-nine railroads in the United States earned during June, 1914, net operating revenue of $49,451,484, according to a report by the interstate commerce commission yesterday.

The operating revenue of these roads amounted to $173,630,342, and operating expenses to $124,179,158. For the twelve months ending with June, 1914, these railroads earned net operating revenue of $596,084,901. Their operating revenues for this period were $2,128,074,981, and operating expenses $1,551,990,080.

TEMPERANCE THINGS

Research and News.

Edited by

REV. ROBERT C. PETERSON

The Situation Today.

Considerably more than half of the territory and about half of the population of the United States is now covered by some form of prohibition.

Maine, Kansas, North Dakota, Oklahoma, North Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia and Mississippi have state-wide prohibition laws. West Virginia was dry July 1, 1914. Arkansas, under a law that went into operation January 1, 1914, is dry, excepting a few cities. During 1914 California, Colorado, Oregon, Washington and Virginia, and possibly Utah and Idaho will vote on state-wide prohibition.

Alabama, Florida, Idaho, Kentucky, Missouri, Oregon, South Carolina and Texas have been made almost entirely dry by local option.

Prohibition is the leading topic of discussion in Pennsylvania, and a leading topic in Ohio. The Pittsburgh Board of Trade has declared for national prohibition — an epochal event.

There will probably be twice as many local option contests in 1914 as in any previous year. Hundreds will occur between now and May 1st. Great conservative dailies, like the Gazette-Times, of Pittsburgh, are coming out for no liquor advertisements and for national prohibition. Scores of newspapers formerly hostile, now maintain an attitude of passive friendliness.

The prohibition constitutional amendment measures, introduced in the senate by Senator Sheppard, of Texas, and in the house, by Mr. Holton, of Alabama, will have regular hearings before the judiciary committees to which they have been referred.

Shrewd newspaper correspondents, leading congressional members, and other observers of political tendencies declare that nothing can delay the consideration of prohibition as a national issue beyond 1916.

The new Webb-Kenyon interstate bill has proven most valuable. Kansas, Texas, North Carolina, Mississippi, Tennessee and Oklahoma have reinforced it with strong state laws which have done great service.

The greatest danger now to the temperance movement is this fact: The brewers and distillers are concentrating on the great cities and centers of foreign-born population, an "educational" propaganda which is tremendously increasing the consumption of liquors in these localities. They can and must be reached by bad barber shops, filthy, dangerous education, and that quickly.

Liquor Shops and Barber Shops.

The liquor people say: "Wipe out the abuse, not the use. There are barber shops, but you don't favor bad barber shops, filthy, dangerous barber shops, but you don't favor prohibiting the barber business."

Did you ever see a man go into a barber shop and have three shaves and two hair-cuts, and then treat the house to a shampoo? Did you ever hear of any poor woman knocking at the door of her pastor to say: "Dr. Smith, for goodness' sake help me to get John out of the barber shop. He's already had five face massages and his hair singed, and when he comes home, he'll break up all the furniture and maybe kill the children?"

There's a fundamental difference between the barber trade and the saloon trade, a difference that makes the one amenable to regulation and the other amenable only to prohibition.

Facts.

The money spent for liquors in the United States for the year 1913 was $2,290,548,763.

The revenue derived from the liquor traffic during that year was $230,146,332.14.

The capital invested in the manufacture of liquors in the United States is $771,516,000.

The yearly loss of life because of the consumption of alcoholic liquors is, according to the conservative estimate of E. Bunnell Phelps, an insurance expert, $65,897. This is at the rate of one death for every eight minutes.

The Titanic carried down 1503 people. Drink carries down this number of people eight days in the year.

According to Phelps' estimate one man in every seven and one-half dies as the direct or indirect result of alcohol.

The per capita consumption of alcoholic liquors in America is about twenty-three gallons yearly.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody can Tell when you Darken Gray, Faded Hair with Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this old-time receipt, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

AUSTRIA'S RULER IS A HARD WORKER

Emperor Francis Joseph Labors Fourteen Hours Daily

LONG REIGN FULL OF TRAGEDIES

Assassinations, Suicides and Other Happenings Have Marked the Life of the Monarch Since He Ascended the Throne in 1848, When He Was But 18 Years of Age.

(SPECIAL TO THE PROGRESS)

Vienna, Aug.—The aged Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria-Hungary, who has ruled longer than any other crowned head in the world and who more than a year ago was supposedly dying of old age, is working fourteen hours every day during the war crisis.

Ever since the war cloud began to gather over Austria and Serbia following the assassination in Bosnia of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the throne of the Dual Monarchy, Emperor Francis Joseph has gone to his executive office at five o'clock each morning and remained there, steadily at work, with but brief intervals for meals, until seven at night.

When the trouble with Serbia first became serious, his imperial majesty was at Ischl, the summer capital. It was there that he began his fourteen-hours-a-day working schedule. He gave up his shooting excursions, which are his favorite amusement and devoted all his waking hours to work.

Shortly after the threatened war became an actuality, Emperor Francis Joseph returned to Vienna and since then has been at work two hours more than half of each day. The old ruler is in no sense a figurehead. He, perhaps more even than the German kaiser, is the actual head of his government. Francis Joseph really is directing every move of the Austrian army in the great war. Not a step is taken without his approval.

Perhaps no European ruler has lived a more pathetically tragic life than Emperor Francis Joseph. Born August 18, 1830, he is 84 years old and he has ruled nearly 66 years, ascending the throne of Austria Dec. 2, 1848, when but 18 years old. Austria later formed a union with Hungary and Francis Joseph was crowned king of Hungary June 8, 1867. His official title is emperor of Austria and king of Hungary.

Countless tragedies have saddened the life of the emperor, violent deaths, domestic unhappiness and scandal. Almost all the aged rulers relatives have died violent deaths.

His wife, Empress Elizabeth, the daughter of Duke Maximilian, of Bavaria, whom he married in 1854, was stabbed to death by an anarchist at Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 10, 1898.

Archduke Rudolph, the first heir-apparent, born in 1858, committed suicide in 1889.

The emperor's oldest brother, Archduke Ferdinand Maximilian, who became emperor of Mexico for a brief time, was shot to death at Queretaro, in that country in 1867.

After the death of Archduke Rudolph, the succession to the throne passed to the emperor's second brother, Archduke Charles Louis. He died in 1896 and his son, Archduke Francis Ferdinand, became the heir-apparent.

In June of this year Archduke Francis Ferdinand was assassinated in Bosnia. His death was the direct though not primary, cause of the present great war.

China Will Retake Kiao-Chau.

Peking, Aug. 17.—The Chinese government, following Japan's ultimatum to Germany, is preparing to retake Kiao-Chau by its own means. Chinese troops are being rushed to the scene in train loads.

Approved by the People.

Tokio, Aug. 17.—Japan's ultimatum to Germany is generally approved by the press and the people, only a few papers dissenting. It is reported that there are 90,000 troops in transports awaiting orders to sail.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT A GUEST

Mrs. Pinchot Has Done Noble Work Among the Afflicted Children of New York City—Acted as Fire Inspector for the committee of Safety After the Triangle Horror.

New York, Aug. 17.—Miss Cornelia E. Bryce, daughter of Lloyd Stevens Bryce, former minister to the Netherlands who was married to Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester of the United States, in the Episcopal church at Roslyn, Long Island, is a prominent personage.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Pinchot went across Long Island Sound by motorboat to the bedside of Mr. Pinchot's mother, who is critically ill at Saugatuck, Conn. Because of her condition there are no plans for a honeymoon.

Among the guests were: Colonel Roosevelt, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Garfield of Cleveland; Dean William Draper Lewis, of Philadelphia; Mrs. John L. Stewart, of South Bethlehem, Pa.; Mrs. Amos Pinchot, Mrs. Charles B. Wood, Miss Ruth Morgan, J. L. Houghteling, Jr., of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. J. Sergeant Cram, of New York city, and Cooper Bryce. Colonel Roosevelt left immediately after the ceremony to fill a speaking engagement at Hartford.

Mrs. Gifford Pinchot has been active in many phases of New York life. Her chief work has been of a social welfare and charitable nature, while she has also been extremely active in Progressive party affairs. Her principal interest however has been in hospital work. She is manager of the Bellevue hospital training school and has given of her time and financial support to the Bellevue nursing service bureau.

One phase of this work entailed going into the homes of poor families and persuading the children to enter the hospitals for necessary operations. While abroad she made an intimate study of the London hospitals, and formulated a report which is being used for the benefit of the Bellevue training school. At Roslyn she planned and helped to establish a local nurse service.

In 1913-14, she was prime mover both in the study of employment in New York city and the work of establishing working rooms for the benefit of unemployed women. In this connection she also established an employment bureau. Following the tragedy of the Triangle fire in New York city, she acted as fire inspector for the committee of safety, organized to provide better safety laws for women employed in New York buildings. She is also interested in suffrage work.

Her mother is a daughter of ex-Mayor Edward Cooper and a granddaughter of Peter Cooper, philanthropist.

INJUNCTION GRANTED IN DUBOIS SCHOOL MATTER

Judge Bell on Saturday handed down a decision granting to certain citizens of Dubois an injunction restraining the board of education of that borough from permitting the ladies auxiliary to the Ancient Order of Hibernians the use of the auditorium of the High school for their sessions. The judge states in his decree that his personal inclinations would cause him to refuse the injunction, but that he was compelled to follow the strict letter and spirit of the law in ruling against the auxiliary.

The court explains that school houses cannot be used for other than of a semi-educational or public character. As the ladies auxiliary to the A. O. H. desired to use the High school auditorium for the holding of private or secret sessions the court found that the new school code prohibited anything of this kind, and he was forced to comply with the law, however willing he himself would be to decide otherwise.

must leave the other boy alone. Guthrie walked away, and those who witnessed the affair thought no more of the matter.

Young Guthrie, it is said went to his home, where he secured a revolver. Returning, he found Mr. Willard in the store. Without warning he opened fire, seven shots taking effect in Willard's body.

Dr. J. Frank Rowles, of Mahaffey, was hurried to the scene of the shooting, and the injured man was rushed to the Adrian hospital at Punxsutawney. As there is no law officer at Sidney, no effort was made to arrest Guthrie at the time.

Willard appeared to be resting well on Sunday morning, but died on Sunday afternoon. An effort was then made to locate Guthrie, but without avail. He returned to Sidney late Saturday night, but immediately disappeared.

David Willard was well known in the upper end of Clearfield county, and was respected by a large circle of acquaintances. His wife, who is a sister of Richard Cissna, the Glen Campbell merchant, survives, together with eight children, many of whom are quite small.

WILLIE RITCHIE NEVER DUCKED REAL FIGHTERS

BY FRANG G. MENKE.
(By International News Service.)

New York, Aug. 17.—Willie Ritchie was a model champion. There are a number of persons who have been heaving brickbats at Willie since Freddie Welsh took away his world champion title, but a glance over Ritchie's record shows that he never ducked a real fighter. Ritchie, unlike the champions in the other divisions, and unlike the champions in his class that preceded him, was not a lemon picker.

When Ritchie fought, he gave the crowd the best he had. With Willie as one of the principals the crowd was sure that at least one party in the fighting contract would give the fans a run for their money. Ritchie never stalled—even his bitterest enemies cannot charge him with that.

While he held the championship he took on the best man in his class. He met Joe Rivers when the Mexican was at the zenith of his career. He tackled Leach Cross in New York and that scrap was one of the greatest ever staged in this town. It was a hammer and tongs affair from the tap of the first gong. Ritchie mixed and slugged. He never backed away from that terrific punch that Cross carries. He was boxing every minute of the way.

He fought such a fight with everything to lose and nothing to gain. The defeat of Cross could not add much glory to his name. His defeat by Cross meant the loss of the title.

Wolgast, from whom Ritchie took the title, scoffed at Ritchie's prowess. He reiterated a hundred times that if they ever met again he would be able to regain the crown. Ritchie took him on in Milwaukee—and Ritchie won.

Ritchie met Tommy Murphy, in response to Pacific Coast demands. They figured there that Murphy could beat him. Murphy, before the battle, was highly touted. Ritchie made Murphy look like a punching bag during the battle. Ritchie met Charley White, in Milwaukee, one of the toughest men in the lightweight division. Out there the fans say White gave Ritchie a beating. Ritchie denies it. But Ritchie says he is perfectly willing to take on White again at any time a sufficient purse is offered.

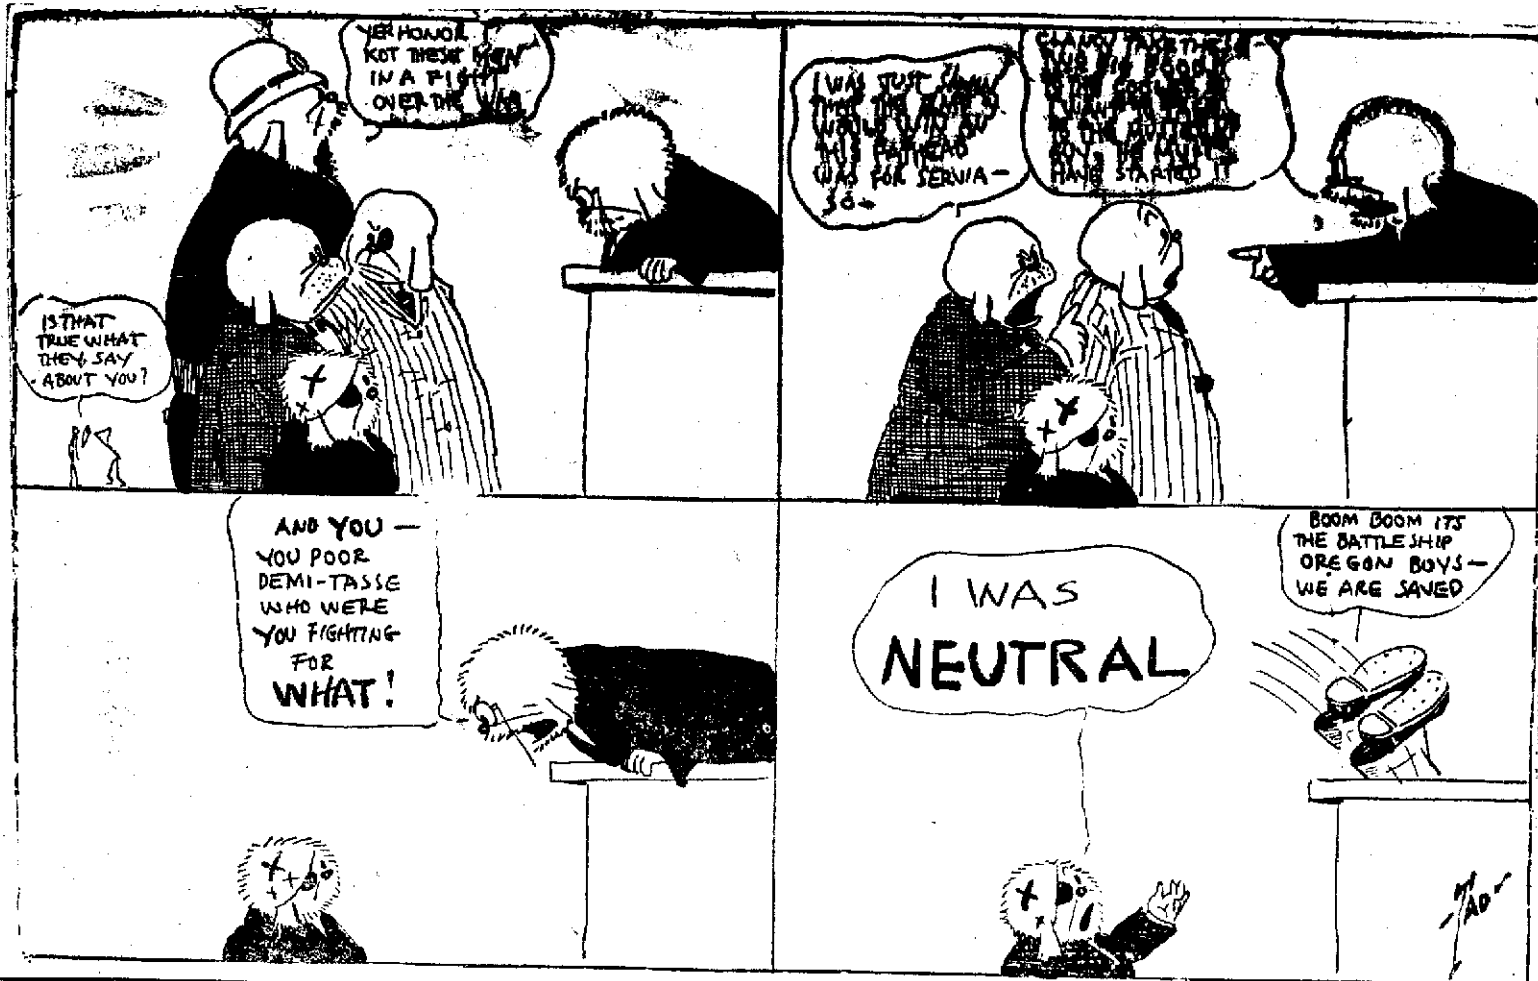

Ritchie went to England to fight Welsh. He knew before going that he either would have to knock out the Briton or lose. The American style of aggressiveness doesn't figure there except against him. The ducking and running counts for points. Ritchie knew that—he knew that such a way was Welsh's style. But he didn't squirm out of the scrap. He showed that he doesn't own a yellow streak.

Ritchie was a popular champion. He made friends with the fans because he always was willing to give them the best he had. And that was considerable. Of course, Ritchie haggled a lot about his price. But that's what every other man does. He wants the most he can get for his services.

Arthur Pelky has announced his retirement from the ring. He never has been able to get back his nerve since his fight with Luther McCarty. It was Pelky's blow in the second round of that fight that sent McCarty down to his death. The shock of Mc-

SILK HAT HARRY'S DIVORCE SUIT

BY TAD

Carty's death unsettled Pelky's nerves and he never since has fought even a fair fight. There always was a sort of timidity about his actions. He was afraid to hit.

Johnny Coulon, former bantam champion, has made a big hit with the members of the Working Boys Home in Chicago. He presented them with $1000—the money paid to him as a guarantee for his appearance in the ring with Kid Williams, of Baltimore. Johnny lost the title in that scrap, but he made good his promise. And with the Chicago lads he is a king.

Good evening! Isn't it strange how quickly the news of an increase in prices of foodstuffs travels, while a reduction in prices seems to come by slow freight.

Even at that, the allies may be traveling the alleys into Belgium.

Crickets are singing their autumnal ditties and the coal man warbles his song of praise.

Motorcycle races down Third street may be the cause of a serious accident one of these days.

Many a man is willing to give advice who hasn't gumption enough to turn a grindstone in the proper direction.

Judging from their past records, the Zeppelin balloons used in the German army will be a great aid to the Belgians.

The Progress continues to give its readers full reports of the great war in Europe, and as this war progresses the news is certain to be more interesting. Have the paper sent to your home every week-day for the small sum of twenty-five cents a month.

It is to be hoped that James S. Merritt will be able to prove that the charge of arson brought against him in connection with the Woodland fire is unfounded. To be accused of setting fire to a building causing the destruction of nearly twenty other places of business is a serious matter.

TESTING THE MILK

The board of health now has in its possession the milk testing apparatus which borough council authorized Dr. Reilley, president of the board, to purchase. As soon as the machine has been assembled and is ready for operation the work of testing the milk sold to local consumers will be begun in order that such lactical fluid as is likely to contain disease germs may be eliminated from the supply furnished Clearfield citizens.

Together with the testing of the milk the board of health is expected to examine the dairies and the entire paraphernalia employed in the distribution of milk, and those dealers who have not completely complied with the rules of sanitation will be compelled to do so as soon as possible. Wagons in which milk is hauled and bottles in which it is carried will have to be cleaned and kept clean if the milk is to pass satisfactory inspection by the board of health.

For the most part the milk sold in this town is clean and up to the standard. There are some dealers, however, who fail to keep their dairies, wagons and bottles clean. These will be looked after. Wholesalers who receive milk from other places will have to guarantee that this milk is free from contamination. The regulations of the board of health are strict, but not any stricter than they should be when it is realized that impure milk is the cause of typhoid fever and other contagious diseases. Clearfield citizens pay enough for milk to be entitled to have it pure and fresh.

IN THE MEANTIME.

While one-half of the people of Europe are engaged in a war of extermination there are other things happening in this big world of ours, some of which are of much interest to the general public as is the great conflict. The war is an absorbing subject of discussion in some quarters, but there are other topics of almost equal importance and interest found in the news columns of the papers.

In Mexico the new provisional president has fled from Mexico City and placed himself under the protection of the Americans at Vera Cruz. Carbajal seems to be unsafe either with the rebels or the federales, and as the former are about to enter the capital the provisional president has decided to go elsewhere and wait developments.

On Saturday Colonel Goethals formally opened the big ditch down in Panama, dug by Uncle Sam for the accommodation of British commerce. This event is of such stupendous importance that if it had not been for the European war the fact that the canal is now ready for the passage of ships would have been blazoned in big type on the first page of every newspaper in the United States.

Congress sits still in session trying to devise ways and means of preventing the Democratic party from disintegration by passing laws which are expected to placate the people and fool them into believing that the Democratic party is worthy of being given another lease of office. The fact that the Democrats have not succeeded in reducing the high cost of living is a mere side issue in the estimation of that party.

The farmers are busy garnering the biggest and best crop of grain in the history of agriculture in the United States. The people are ready for war now, playing tennis or golf, boating or fishing, criticising each others clothes, putting up preserves, swearing at the flies and indulging in other pastimes and pleasures common to the American race. There is no dearth of excitement—and the mad rush toward the ultima thule cannot be stayed.

RECEIVES NO ENCOURAGEMENT IN PROPOSED LOAN TO FRANCE

J. P. MORGAN

Washington, Aug. 17.—J. P. Morgan, who conferred with President Wilson with regard to a proposed loan of many millions to France by the Morgan interests, received no encouragement for the project from the president. It was pointed out to Mr. Morgan that the United States wishes to remain strictly neutral and that such a loan might be construed by Germany or Austria as an attempt on the part of the United States to aid the triple entente.

CASH DIVIDENDS ON GOODS YOU BUY

By HOLLAND.

SO UNUSUAL good, doesn't it? And the best of it is it is true. These cash dividends are paid on every dollar you spend provided you spend wisely and buy goods that the market believes in so strongly that he advertises them.

Advertised goods are not always the cheapest so far as the amount asked for them is concerned. But they are INVARIABLY THE BEST. And this makes them cheapest when all things are considered.

When you buy for the same money a better article than you have been buying you get a cash dividend on your purchase. When you pay less for an article of the same quality you get a cash dividend.

THESE DIVIDENDS ARE PAID TO THE READERS OF ADVERTISEMENTS IN THIS PAPER.

ADVERTISEMENT.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT SEALED BIDS will be received by the Supervisors of Knox Township, at their Meeting Place in Carnwath, Penn., until 12 o'clock noon, Tuesday, August 25th, 1914, for the construction of a

THIRTY-FOOT, RE-INFORCED CONCRETE GIRDER, HIGHWAY BRIDGE,

Over Potts' Run, at Carnwath.

Proposals will be required to conform to plans and specifications on file at the office of the Supervisors, and at the office of the Engineer, E. W. Hess, in Clearfield.

Bidders must deposit with the Secretary of the Supervisors, a certified check to the amount of Fifty Dollars, ($50.00) and payable to the Supervisors, prior to the time when bids will close, as a guarantee of good faith. Checks of unsuccessful bidders will be returned to them after the bids have been opened.

Proposals will be publicly opened at 1:00 o'clock P. M. of the same day.

The successful bidder will be required to execute satisfactory bonds in the sum equal to the bid for the faithful performance of the contract.

THE SUPERVISORS RESERVE THE RIGHT TO REJECT ANY OR ALL BIDS.

By order of the Supervisors,

NOSE AND HEAD STOPPED UP FROM COLD OR CATARRH, OPEN AT ONCE

Dull Headache Goes. Stops Nasal Catarrh. Discharges. My Cleaning, Healing Balm Instantly.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped air passages of the head will open, you will breathe freely, dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now. Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils: penetrates and heats the inflamed, swollen membrane, which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous droppings into the throat and raw dryness is distracting but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

Blames England for European Muddle
GEORGE BERNARD SHAW

While acknowledging that Prussia ought to be soundly whipped for her militarism, George Bernard Shaw, the English playwright, puts the blame for the present war on the shoulders of Great Britain.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush your Kidneys Occasionally if you eat meat regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, say a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become over-worked from the strain get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

RAILROAD NEWS

Items of Interest, Gathered Here and There, For The Boys Who Man The Trains

JOHNSTOWN PAYS DEARLY FOR OVERHEAD CROSSING

Sub-grade and overhead approaches to Pennsylvania railroad bridges and subways being constructed in connection with the railroad's big program of improvements in the vicinity of Johnstown, will cost the city of Johnstown approximately $80,000. The city has a bond issue of $100,000 to cover the cost of this work and bids for the sale of the bonds probably will be advertised for at once.

The railroad has started work on the construction of one of the bridges and on the concreting of the Fairfield avenue subway, and the city, which has not expected to be required to spend the money realized from the bond issue until next year, now finds it necessary to put the bonds on the market. Council held a meeting Friday morning with engineers of the Pennsylvania railroad, and plans submitted by the railroad were formally approved.

Changing the Time Tables.

It is reported that more than 600 time tables have been changed in the last official guide, about 10 per cent. more than were made a year ago. The reason for the extraordinary number of changes is an effort on the part of railroads all over the country to economize by consolidating trains and cutting down the number. Several eastern roads, notably the Erie, and Pennsylvania, have been doing experimental work along this line by adding longer engines that will carry in some cases twice the number of cars that were originally hauled.

Hill's Comment on War.

James J. Hill, who is in New York city at present attending the meeting of the Foreign Trade council, believes that the effect of the European war on this country depends upon the ability of the American merchants and trade companies to market our crops and manufactured products. Regarding crops in the Northwest, Mr. Hill said: "We are going to have an excellent crop along the Great Northern and from present indications the harvest will surpass those of 1912."

Railroad Revenues

One hundred and thirty-nine railroads in the United States earned during June, 1914, net operating revenue of $49,451,484, according to a report by the interstate commerce commission yesterday.

The operating revenue of these roads amounted to $173,630,342, and operating expenses to $124,179,158. For the twelve months ending with June, 1914, these railroads earned net operating revenue of $596,084,901. Their operating revenues for this period were $2,128,074,981, and operating expenses $1,551,990,080.

TEMPERANCE THINGS

Research and News.

Edited by

REV. ROBERT C. PETERSON

The Situation Today.

Considerably more than half of the territory and about half of the population of the United States is now covered by some form of prohibition.

Maine, Kansas, North Dakota, Oklahoma, North Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia and Mississippi have state-wide prohibition laws. West Virginia was dry July 1, 1914. Arkansas, under a law that went into operation January 1, 1914, is dry, excepting a few cities. During 1914 California, Colorado, Oregon, Washington and Virginia, and possibly Utah and Idaho will vote on state-wide prohibition.

Alabama, Florida, Idaho, Kentucky, Missouri, Oregon, South Carolina and Texas have been made almost entirely dry by local option.

Prohibition is the leading topic of discussion in Pennsylvania, and a leading topic in Ohio. The Pittsburgh Board of Trade has declared for national prohibition — an epochal event.

There will probably be twice as many local option contests in 1914 as in any previous year. Hundreds will occur between now and May 1st. Great conservative dailies, like the Gazette-Times, of Pittsburgh, are coming out for no liquor advertisements and for national prohibition. Scores of newspapers formerly hostile, now maintain an attitude of passive friendliness.

The prohibition constitutional amendment measures, introduced in the senate by Senator Sheppard, of Texas, and in the house, by Mr. Holton, of Alabama, will have regular hearings before the judiciary committees to which they have been referred.

Shrewd newspaper correspondents, leading congressional members, and other observers of political tendencies declare that nothing can delay the consideration of prohibition as a national issue beyond 1916.

The new Webb-Kenyon interstate bill has proven most valuable. Kansas, Texas, North Carolina, Mississippi, Tennessee and Oklahoma have reinforced it with strong state laws which have done great service.

The greatest danger now to the temperance movement is this fact: The brewers and distillers are concentrating on the great cities and centers of foreign-born population, an "educational" propaganda which is tremendously increasing the consumption of liquors in these localities. They can and must be reached by bad barber shops, filthy, dangerous education, and that quickly.

Liquor Shops and Barber Shops.

The liquor people say: "Wipe out the abuse, not the use. There are barber shops, but you don't favor bad barber shops, filthy, dangerous barber shops, but you don't favor prohibiting the barber business."

Did you ever see a man go into a barber shop and have three shaves and two hair-cuts, and then treat the house to a shampoo? Did you ever hear of any poor woman knocking at the door of her pastor to say: "Dr. Smith, for goodness' sake help me to get John out of the barber shop. He's already had five face massages and his hair singed, and when he comes home, he'll break up all the furniture and maybe kill the children?"

There's a fundamental difference between the barber trade and the saloon trade, a difference that makes the one amenable to regulation and the other amenable only to prohibition.

Facts.

The money spent for liquors in the United States for the year 1913 was $2,290,548,763.

The revenue derived from the liquor traffic during that year was $230,146,322.14.

The capital invested in the manufacture of liquors in the United States is $771,516,000.

The yearly loss of life because of the consumption of alcoholic liquors is, according to the conservative estimate of E. Bunnell Phelps, an insurance expert, $65,897. This is at the rate of one death for every eight minutes.

The Titanic carried down 1503 people. Drink carries down this number of people eight days in the year.

According to Phelps' estimate one man in every seven and one-half dies as the direct or indirect result of alcohol.

The per capita consumption of alcoholic liquors in America is about twenty-three gallons yearly.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody can Tell when you Darken Gray, Faded Hair with Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this old-time receipt, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

LONG REIGN FULL OF TRAGEDIES

Assassinations, Suicides and Other Happenings Have Marked the Life of the Monarch Since He Ascended the Throne in 1848, When He Was But 18 Years of Age.

(SPECIAL TO THE PROGRESS)

Vienna, Aug.—The aged Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria-Hungary, who has ruled longer than any other crowned head in the world and who more than a year ago was supposedly dying of old age, is working fourteen hours every day during the war crisis.

Ever since the war cloud began to gather over Austria and Serbia following the assassination in Bosnia of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the throne of the Dual Monarchy, Emperor Francis Joseph has gone to his executive office at five o'clock each morning and remained there, steadily at work, with but brief intervals for meals, until seven at night.

When the trouble with Serbia first became serious, his imperial majesty was at Ischl, the summer capital. It was there that he began his fourteen-hours-a-day working schedule. He gave up his shooting excursions, which are his favorite amusement and devoted all his waking hours to work.

Shortly after the threatened war became an actuality, Emperor Francis Joseph returned to Vienna and since then has been at work two hours more than half of each day. The old ruler is in no sense a figurehead. He, perhaps more even than the German kaiser, is the actual head of his government. Francis Joseph really is directing every move of the Austrian army in the great war. Not a step is taken without his approval.

Perhaps no European ruler has lived a more pathetically tragic life than Emperor Francis Joseph. Born August 18, 1830, he is 84 years old and he has ruled nearly 66 years, ascending the throne of Austria Dec. 2, 1848, when but 18 years old. Austria later formed a union with Hungary and Francis Joseph was crowned king of Hungary June 8, 1867. His official title is emperor of Austria and king of Hungary.

Countless tragedies have saddened the life of the emperor, violent deaths, domestic unhappiness and scandal. Almost all the aged rulers relatives have died violent deaths.

His wife, Empress Elizabeth, the daughter of Duke Maximilian, of Bavaria, whom he married in 1854, was stabbed to death by an anarchist at Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 10, 1898.

Archduke Rudolph, the first heir-apparent, born in 1858, committed suicide in 1889.

The emperor's oldest brother, Archduke Ferdinand Maximilian, who became emperor of Mexico for a brief time, was shot to death at Queretaro, in that country in 1867.

After the death of Archduke Rudolph, the succession to the throne passed to the emperor's second brother, Archduke Charles Louis. He died in 1896 and his son, Archduke Francis Ferdinand, became the heir-apparent.

In June of this year Archduke Francis Ferdinand was assassinated in Bosnia. His death was the direct though not primary, cause of the present great war.

stance a fulfillment of her part in the Anglo-Japanese alliance, but it is designed also—an issue having arisen—to terminate Germany's control of Kiau-Chau which Japan holds, endangers the integrity of China and the peace of the Orient.

China Will Retake Kiao-Chau.

Peking, Aug. 17.—The Chinese government, following Japan's ultimatum to Germany, is preparing to retake Kiao-Chau by its own means. Chinese troops are being rushed to the scene in train loads.

Approved by the People.

Tokio, Aug. 17.—Japan's ultimatum to Germany is generally approved by the press and the people, only a few papers dissenting. It is reported that there are 90,000 troops in transports awaiting orders to sail.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT A GUEST

Mrs. Pinchot Has Done Noble Work Among the Afflicted Children of New York City—Acted as Fire Inspector for the committee of Safety After the Triangle Horror.

New York, Aug. 17.—Miss Cornelia E. Bryce, daughter of Lloyd Stevens Bryce, former minister to the Netherlands who was married to Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester of the United States, in the Episcopal church at Roslyn, Long Island, is a prominent personage.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Pinchot went across Long Island Sound by motorboat to the bedside of Mr. Pinchot's mother, who is critically ill at Saugatuck, Conn. Because of her condition there are no plans for a honeymoon.

Among the guests were: Colonel Roosevelt, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Garfield of Cleveland; Dean William Draper Lewis, of Philadelphia; Mrs. John L. Stewart, of South Bethlehem, Pa.; Mrs. Amos Pinchot, Mrs. Charles B. Wood, Miss Ruth Morgan, J. L. Houghteling, Jr., of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. J. Sergeant Cram, of New York city, and Cooper Bryce. Colonel Roosevelt left immediately after the ceremony to fill a speaking engagement at Hartford.

Mrs. Gifford Pinchot has been active in many phases of New York life. Her chief work has been of a social welfare and charitable nature, while she has also been extremely active in Progressive party affairs. Her principal interest however has been in hospital work. She is manager of the Bellevue hospital training school and has given of her time and financial support to the Bellevue nursing service bureau.

One phase of this work entailed going into the homes of poor families and persuading the children to enter the hospitals for necessary operations. While abroad she made an intimate study of the London hospitals, and formulated a report which is being used for the benefit of the Bellevue training school. At Roslyn she planned and helped to establish a local nurse service.

In 1913-14, she was prime mover both in the study of employment in New York city and the work of establishing working rooms for the benefit of unemployed women. In this connection she also established an employment bureau. Following the tragedy of the Triangle fire in New York city, she acted as fire inspector for the committee of safety, organized to provide better safety laws for women employed in New York buildings. She is also interested in suffrage work.

Her mother is a daughter of ex-Mayor Edward Cooper and a granddaughter of Peter Cooper, philanthropist.

INJUNCTION GRANTED IN DUBOIS SCHOOL MATTER

Judge Bell on Saturday handed down a decision granting to certain citizens of Dubois an injunction restraining the board of education of that borough from permitting the ladies auxiliary to the Ancient Order of Hibernians the use of the auditorium of the High school for their sessions. The judge states in his decree that his personal inclinations would cause him to refuse the injunction, but that he was compelled to follow the strict letter and spirit of the law in ruling against the auxiliary.

The court explains that school houses cannot be used for other than of a semi-educational or public character. As the ladies auxiliary to the A. O. H. desired to use the High school auditorium for the holding of private or secret sessions the court found that the new school code prohibited anything of this kind, and he was forced to comply with the law, however willing he himself would be to decide otherwise.

MURDER BY YOUTH NEAR COUNTY LINE

must leave the other boy alone. Guthrie walked away, and those who witnessed the affair thought no more of the matter.

Young Guthrie, it is said went to his home, where he secured a revolver. Returning, he found Mr. Willard in the store. Without warning he opened fire, seven shots taking effect in Willard's body.

Dr. J. Frank Rowles, of Mahaffey, was hurried to the scene of the shooting, and the injured man was rushed to the Adrian hospital at Punxsutawney. As there is no law officer at Sidney, no effort was made to arrest Guthrie at the time.

Willard appeared to be resting well on Sunday morning, but died on Sunday afternoon. An effort was then made to locate Guthrie, but without avail. He returned to Sidney late Saturday night, but immediately disappeared.

David Willard was well known in the upper end of Clearfield county, and was respected by a large circle of acquaintances. His wife, who is a sister of Richard Cissna, the Glen Campbell merchant, survives, together with eight children, many of whom are quite small.
